To Hear 10-Point Program

Supreme Court Will Give Lewis and Miners Opportunity To Come Before it

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—(P)—The Supreme Court today permitted John L. Lewis and his United Mine Workers to come before it with a 10-point appeal from their conviction and $3,510,000 fines for contempt.

The historic case, growing out of Lewis' flaunting a restraining order intended to prevent the recent 17-day coal strike, thus was outlined for the court of last resort in all its broad legal aspects.

One week ago the court granted the government's request that it give a final "authoritative" ruling on the action of Federal District Judge T. Alan Goldsborough in issuing the restrainer. All arguments are set for Jan. 14.

Among the ten questions for decision raised by Lewis and the union were:

Were the fines excessive and so high that they violated the U. S. constitution?

Question Allowed

Did Goldsborough have power to issue the restraining order in view of the bans by the Norris-La Guardia and Clayton acts on the issuance of court orders in labor disputes? This restrainer called on Lewis to withdraw his notice that the union's contract to dig coal was terminated. Lewis chose to ignore it.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—(P)—The District of Columbia has a big interest—more than $2,100,000 worth, in fact—in the supreme court decision on the contempt conviction of John L. Lewis and his United Mine Workers.

The district receives 60 per cent of all fines levied against Lewis and the UMW.

District Auditor A. R. Pilkerton said if the district collects the $2,100,000 plus, it will go into the treasury for use as congress authorizes. Congress, in effect, sits as city council for the district.

Could Goldsborough extend the temporary restraining order for an extra ten days as he did without the consent of Lewis?

Did Goldsborough admit "prejudicial and irrelevant" testimony?

The justice department's petition contended the two acts do not apply to the government. The department said the government acted as a sovereign seeking to protect the interests of the people, and the acts apply to private employers only.

Busy Court Day

It was another busy opinion day session, during which the supreme court:

1. Declined to pass on the appeal of 219 Indonesian sailors fighting against deportation to Java, saying they face prosecution there, and perhaps death. Their attorney said they had refused to sail on British and Dutch ships with arms to suppress the Indonesian revolt. A lower court failed to block their deportation. They are held in Texas.

2. Refused to reconsider its recent decision upholding a Mann act conviction of six members of a Utah-fundamentalist cult whose plural marriages were held to come within the scope of the law.

3. Slapped down 7 to 2 a state tax on sales of securities of one of its citizens on the New York stock exchange. The court said the sale was in interstate commerce and therefore not subject to the state's taxation.

4. Agreed to pass on the appeal of the government from the dismissal by a U. S. district court here of charges that the United States Gypsum company and six other firms violated the anti-trust act.

Petition Dismissed

5. Dismissed a petition by the Schine Chain Theatres, Inc., operator of 93 amusement places in New York, Ohio, Kentucky, Maryland, Delaware and Virginia, which asked review of a lower court decision that the firm violated the anti-trust act.

6. Agreed to review action of the U. S. circuit court in Denver in staying reorganization proceedings for the Denver and Rio Grande Western railroad Co.

7. Unanimously refused to permit the Seelye Dairy of Chicago to enter in court its challenge of a federal milk marketing order. The justice department contended objections first should be laid before the secretary of agriculture.

8. Held in a 6 to 3 opinion that the statute of limitations barred refund of $912,978 excise taxes paid by the Electric Storage Battery company of Philadelphia on sales from 1919 to 1922, although the justice department agreed they were "erroneously paid."

Temperature Reported 94 Below Zero

LONDON, Dec. 16.—(P)—Bitter winds and snow sweeping out of Siberia plagued western Europe today, causing acute distress in some war-battered areas.

Snow fell from the northernmost British Isles to Italy. Thousands of Germans had little or no fuel amid the bomb ruins of Frankfurt when the mercury dropped to one.

The cold wave came as Moscow reported that geographers had found the "world pole of cold"—a spot where the temperature had fallen to a record 94 degrees below zero—in a hitherto unexplored mountain section of Siberia.

The broadcast said the place lies approximately 63 degrees north and 143 degrees east.

Bribe Scandal Exposed in Pro Football

Heavy Gambler is Accused of Trying To 'Fix' N.Y. Giants

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—(P)—Alvin J. Paris, 28, novelty concern officer, was indicted today on two counts in connection with an alleged attempt to bribe two members of the New York Giants professional football team to "fix" yesterday's championship game with the Chicago Bears.

Paris is held on charges of bribery and bookmaking. The bribery charge alleges violation of a section of the penal law which makes it a crime to attempt to bribe professional athletes.

By Sid Mirkin

NEW YORK, Dec. 16.—(P)—The "tip" that resulted in exposure of yesterday's attempt to fix the National league championship football game between the New York Giants and Chicago Bears actually was the result of police tapping of the telephone wires of Alvin J. Paris, arrested on a bribery charge, it was disclosed in court today.

Sweeping Investigation

Meanwhile, authorities launched a sweeping investigation of local gambling and bookmaking circles to discover whether Paris, 28-year-old officer of a novelty concern, acted alone in attempting to bribe Merle Hapes and Frank Filchok, two of the Giants' backfield stars.

Assistant District Attorney Geo. Monaghan said the investigation was continuing and that no further warrants yet have been issued. "I can't say whether there will be any more arrests today," he said.

Paris, held in $25,000 bail on the bribery charge, was charged with bookmaking in municipal term court today and held in $2,500 bail on that charge. In the complaint Paris was quoted as telling police when they questioned: "If you were listening on the phone as you say, you know what went on."

Monaghan, in asking yesterday that bail be set at $25,000, told the court that "I believe that the defendant has the backing of a very large bookmaking outfit outside of the state of New York. I believe they have substantial means and would not hesitate to get this man out of the jurisdiction."

Collect 25 Tons of Paper

Twenty-five tons of paper were collected by the Boy Scouts of Sedalia in a paper drive Sunday, directed by the Scoutmasters and cub-masters.

Every troop was allotted an area of the city to cover. Trucks contributed by the citizens were used to collect the paper.

Money from the sale of the paper will be used in each Scout troop's activity fund. The amount given to the troops will be in proportion to the number of Scouts participating in the drive.

One Fatally Burned In Station Fire

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., Dec. 16.—

One man was killed and another severely burned when gasoline overflowed from a storage tank and set fire to a filling station at Ozark, Mo., this morning. Jack Smith, 52, employee of a nearby grocery who had stopped at the station to read the morning paper, was fatally burned and Leslie Handy, 43, operator of the station, was seriously injured.

Total Damages: No Sleep

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Dec. 16.—(P)—The first all-woman circuit court jury in Sangamon county history was sworn in to consider an automobile damage suit.

The 12 women argued all night long and then reported they could not agree. They were dismissed.

Russians Live Off German Land; US Pays

Situation Blamed On Terms of Potsdam Agreement

By Jack Bell

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—(P)—The Senate war investigating committee has learned that it probably will cost American taxpayers $171,000,000 next year to feed the U. S.-occupied zone of Germany while the Russian-controlled area eats homegrown food at no cost to Moscow.

Statements gathered by committee counsel George Meader during a three-week trip to Europe laid the blame for this situation on the failure of attempts to unify Germany economically under terms of the 1945 Potsdam Big Three agreement.

Elaming the French for blocking plans to set up central German administrative services, the statements obtained by Meader from army of occupation and military government authorities said the United States had been forced to stop the dismantling of German plants for reparations—most of which would go to Russia—because of the threatened financial drain on this country.

Beyond that, the statements indicated that even if economic unification of Germany were brought about immediately, it might take two years for the Germans to become sufficiently self supporting to require no further food shipments from the United States.

Reporter Requested Information

Meader, whose preliminary report on other phases of his inquiry was criticized by the war department, made the documents available from the committee files at the request of a reporter who asked to see the army and AMG answers to questions the attorney had propounded. Committee Democrats voted against continuing the investigation, but Republicans made Meader's report public.

Occupation officials disclosed in the statements that the Soviets thus far have been unwilling to finance any food import into their zone and have supplied only relatively small amounts of seed and potash fertilizer to the home of Mrs. Arthur Kahn, 901 West Broadway.

Groff received several lacerations on his forehead and a gash over his right eye. He also suffered from shock and the loss of a large amount of blood. He was taken to the Bothwell hospital where Dr. D. H. Edwards rendered medical treatment, while emergency treatment was given by Dr. J. M. Rodeman.

Buddy Elkins, 913 East Third street, driver for the Yellow Cab Co. was passing the scene shortly after the accident occurred and stopped. He found Groff bleeding and asked the police, who were at the scene immediately, if he could take him on to the hospital instead of waiting for an ambulance. They agreed and Elkins rushed the injured man to the Bothwell hospital where the nurses quickly went to work to stop the spurting blood.

Maj. Gen. O. P. Echols, director of the war department's civil affairs division, previously had described the four zones in this way: "The Russians have the food and the British and French have the manufacturing and mining facilities and we have the scenery, the skiing and the yodelers."

On his return from a European tour, Senator Wherry (R-Neb) told a reporter that he found Russia troops in Austria were "living off the land" while UNRRA-purchased food was being used to feed civilians.

The food is being distributed on the basis of how the population collaborates with the local Communist government," Wherry said. "Those who collaborate and those who work Russian-operated factories get more to eat than those who don't. What is true in Austria certainly must be true in the Russian zone of Germany."

Another section of Meader's files contained figure showing that Russia still is holding some 3,000,000 Germans as prisoners of war against fewer than 122,000 still held by this country, 600,000 by France and 160,000 by England.

A dessert luncheon was served at 1:30 o'clock to fifteen members and three guests. The tables were decorated with Christmas greens and flowers. Tall red and white candles were in holders tied with red ribbon bows.

Greetings were read from Mrs. L. J. Banner, now of Phoenix, Ariz., and Mrs. Howard Peck of Kirkwood, former members of the club.

Several selections were given by Mrs. David Routsong and Mrs. A. R. Beach and a reading, "Christmas Cities" by Mrs. George Miller.

After singing carols, gifts were distributed by the unique method of passing the gifts along from person to person until the music stopped and the gift each person was holding at that moment was hers.

of the state or even tamper with witnesses."

The law under which Paris was arraigned yesterday was passed in 1921 to protect professional sports after the scandal involving the 1919 world series baseball games. The law makes an attempt to bribe a professional athlete a felony punishable by one to five years imprisonment.

Paris Signs Statement

Assistant district attorney Geo. Monaghan said Paris signed a statement saying he had offered to place a $1,000 wager on the Bears for each player. Monaghan said Paris' bail was set at $25,000 and a hearing was scheduled for Dec. 23.

Both players refused to deal with Paris, Monaghan said, and were exonerated by police, but Hapes was kept out of the game at the order of league commissioner Bert Bell who announced that his share of the losing players' pool was being held up pending a further hearing.

"It doesn't in any way mean that Hapes is guilty," Bell declared, adding that he felt "it is only the proper procedure due to the circumstances."

Filchok, who denied any knowledge of the affair and was described by Bell as "absolutely in the clear," played in the games, which the Bears won, 24-14.

Both police and league officials said the investigation would continue "to see if it will lead anywhere else or anyone else is involved."

Judgment Granted

In the damage suit against James Hayes, Robert Piper was granted judgment in circuit court today by Judge Dimmitt Hoffman, in the amount of $100 and costs. The judgment was satisfied and paid in open court.

FLUSH OUT KIDNEYS THIS DOCTOR'S WAY

• Backache, loss of the old pep, getting up nights, and headache are often caused by nothing more than improper kidney action due to excess acid in the urine. The kidneys are one of Nature's ways of removing impurities from the blood. And when these impurities back up, trouble may start.

So if you have these troubles, give your kidneys and bladder a good flushing out by taking Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root. It works on the kidneys to flush them out... increases the flow of urine to help relieve that excess acidity and ease that burning sensation when you pass water... helps that bladder irritation that makes you get up nights.

Made of 16 herbs, roots, vegetables, and balsams, Swamp-Root is absolutely non-habit forming. Millions have taken it for results. Caution: take as directed.

Negro Goes Berserk, Shoots

MURFREESBORO, Tenn., Dec. 16.—(P)—A negro who shot two officers and touched off gunplay in which two others were wounded, was removed from a house in which he had barricaded himself this afternoon, after the place had been under siege more than an hour.

The unidentified negro, who became berserk and went on a shooting rampage while under questioning at police headquarters, was removed apparently not badly wounded.

The man was taken from the house and quickly driven away in an automobile by police officers.

Before the negro was taken from the besieged house a crowd of between 150 and 200 white men had surrounded the place.

Although still alive, the prisoner appeared to have been hit several times. One report said he was being taken to Nashville.

Engagement Only Rumor

By Ed Creagh

LONDON, Dec. 16.—(P)—Souring close to Buckingham palace and 10 Downing street expressed a pleased, off-the-record interest today in the possibility of Princess Elizabeth's marrying Prince Philip of Greece and Denmark—but emphasized that persistent rumors of an engagement still were only rumors.

Although the political aspects of such a marriage were debated heatedly in left wing circles, where a strong faction disapproves of the present Greek royal family, there was a widespread tendency to "keep" politics out of it so far as possible and at the same time to play down Prince Philip's connection with Greece.

Such is the feeling of most Britons for the royal family that there would be strong support for the 20-year-old Princess' marrying whom she chose unless the government, whose approval is necessary, or a substantial section of the public regarded her choice as definitely unsuitable.

Ropes Would Not Have Aided

ATLANTA, Dec. 16.—(P)—Fire Chief C. C. Styron said today that the ropes in the Winecoff hotel fire probably would have been greater if every room had been equipped with a rescue rope.

"Simple as it may sound, experience has proven a person can't slide down a rope safely without training and practice," the chief said. "The average novice would lose his grip and fall or would burn his palms to the bone trying to come down a rope."

Styron said he had received reports of letters from throughout the United States with suggestions that rescue ropes would have reduced fatalities, which totaled 121.

Atlanta hardware stores reported numerous purchases of rope by persons who said they wanted them available when they stopped in hotels.

Hearings in Police Court

Two defendants were granted "stays" in police court this morning by Judge W. E. Scotten, but were informed "If you return to this court again on any charge you will be compelled to pay the assessed fine and any which might be imposed on the next case."

Jess White, Jr., 1825 South Beaufon avenue, was arrested by the police for speeding 50 miles per hour on Sixteenth street between Stewart and Marvin avenues. He pleaded guilty and was fined $25. He was granted a stay.

Virgil Rasa, 219 East Saline street, charged with disturbing the peace at the Uptown theater, pleaded guilty and was fined $25.

Rasa informed the court he would pay any doctor bill his "opponent" might have and he was sorry about the whole thing. He was granted a stay.

However, LeRoy Comer, 203 East Sixth street, a taxicab driver, wasn't so lucky. Comer was arrested for careless and reckless driving, to which charge he pleaded guilty. He was fined $15, which he paid.

Committees Of Triple-A In Meeting

Soil Building, And Production Is Discussed

A meeting of the newly elected Triple-A community committee men was held at the local county office on December 6 to explain and discuss the 1947 Triple-A Farm Program, stated Jas. A. Harvey, Pettis county chairman.

31 members of the community committees were present at the meeting and took part in the discussion and selection of soil building and conservation practices for which payment will be approved on Pettis county farms under the 1947 Farm Program.

Also in attendance at this meeting were C. W. Sheppard, State PMA Chairman of Columbia; Calvin Holloway, Triple-A Farmer Fieldman for this district; Muriel Vaughn, Associate County Extension Agent; Arnold Fischer, Pettis county contractor; R. E. Collier and C. L. Scott, students and representatives from the local Veteran's "On The Job" Training Program school and members of the County USDA Council; J. U. Morris, County Extension Agent; Oscar De Wolf, Farm Security Supervisor; H. L. Shirley, National Farm Loan Association and Thos. J. Raines, Pettis county farmer.

Resume of Achievements
The morning program was devoted to a brief resume of the accomplishments of the 1946 Farm Program by Jas. A. Harvey, county chairman, who reported that although the program year does not close until December 31, performance has been completed and applications for payment submitted on 341 farms and that payment has been received by approximately 120 farmers. In addition to other practices performed on Pettis county farms this year, Mr. Harvey reported that at least 40 dams for livestock water will have been completed with an average measurement of 2,100 cubic yards dirt moved in the construction of such dams. Nearly 2,500,000 square feet of sod waterways will have been constructed by the end of 1946 and farmers have obtained approximately 36,000 tons agricultural limestone this year which is about one-half of the yearly amount required on Pettis county farms.

Discuss Production
Following this discussion, Calvin Holloway took over the meeting and gave a brief discussion of the 1947 farm production goals and the support price program for farm commodities. Holloway then explained the provisions of the 1947 Farm Program and the State approved docket of soil building and conserving practices from which the county practices were to be selected.

The afternoon meeting was devoted to the selection of the practices for Pettis county from the State docket. The practices selected by county and community committeemen include the following: (1) Contouring Row Crops, (2) Contouring Drilled Crops, (3) Standard terraces; (4) Diversion terraces, (5) Establishing Sod Waterways and Terrace Outlets, (6) Dams for Livestock Water, (7) Farm Drainage Ditches, (8) Improving Permanent Pasture Land, (9) Green Manure Crop of Sweet Clover, (10) Eradication of Noxious Weeds, (11) Agricultural Limestone and (12) Fertilizer with biennial or perennial legumes or grasses.

To Choose Practice
In addition to these practices selected from the State docket the county is permitted to choose one practice which the committees feel is practical and needed by the county. The Pettis county committeemen chose to approve payment for the practice of seeding acreages of cropland to red, sweet and alsike clovers and alfalfa according to specified requirements.

The county docket setting forth detailed specifications and approved rates of payment for each approved practice will be written by the County Triple-A committee with the technical advice of the Extension Department.

In January another meeting for community committeemen will be held at which time instructions for contacting Pettis county farmers and completing the 1947 Farm Plans will be given. Immediately after that meeting farmers will be contacted to plan their 1947 farm operations to obtain the greatest possible participation in next year's program.

C. W. Sheppard closed the meeting with a summary of the days discussion and touched particularly upon the fact that the Triple-A Program has become a program administered according to the need of farms in the county by Pettis county farmers under the supervision of the U. S. Department of Agriculture. He expressed the desire that through the combined efforts of the agricultural agencies Pettis county farmers will do much in 1947 and the coming years to conserve and increase the productivity of our soil.

There are 105,056 tractors on the farms and ranches of Texas.

Oklahoma was opened for settlement in 1889.

Sixty-Six Of 4-H Projects

Sixty-six projects will be available to Pettis County 4-H club members in 1947 says J. U. Morris, County Extension Agent. The projects offered for the coming year are listed in the manual "4-H Projects for Missouri for 1947 and 1948" which has just been published.

Projects for 1947 will be offered in the fields of crops, beef, pork, sheep, colts, dairy, poultry, horticulture, agricultural engineering, handicraft, forestry, soil conservation, entomology, clothing, home furnishings, home service, food preservation, food preparation, home grounds, and native crafts.

In selecting projects, 4-H club members need to think of their own interests, interests of other boys and girls in the community and of the type of farming which is carried on. Fitting the project in with the type of farming is especially important in agricultural projects.

The number of different projects in a 4-H club should be limited to the number of project leaders which are available. If this practice is followed, project leaders will have a simpler job. Selecting projects by groups rather than individually often creates more interest among the members in the 4-H club.

The Good Seed Short Course is held each year to discuss seed production problems, varieties of seed, seed laws, and other items of interest to grain growers over the state.

The Short Course program for Friday, December 27th, is as follows:

9:30 a. m.—The program of the Department of Field Crops in the breeding production and distribution of Improved Crop Varieties—W. C. Etheridge.

10:00 a. m.—The importance of good selection of adapted varieties to Missouri Agriculture—Ross Fleetwood.

11:00 a. m.—Facts that farmers should know about the Missouri State Seed Law—S. Y. Roth, Director Seed Division State Department of Agriculture.

1:00 p. m.—The Federal Seed Act and its relation to the State Seed Law—W. R. Crispin, Production and Marketing Division U. S. D. A.

1:45 p. m.—The place of the commercial seedsmen in processing and distributing to farmers quality seeds of adapted varieties—G. F. Kellog, Kellogg-Kelly Seed Co., St. Joseph, Mo.

2:30 p. m.—Practical problems in maintaining and insuring supplies of high quality seeds of best varieties led by Ed F. Mangelsdorf—Ed F. Mangelsdorf and Bro. Seed Co., of St. Louis.

2:30 p. m.—Seed Show.

On Saturday morning December 30, M. L. Zuber will discuss "The hybrid corn breeding program and the prospects for new and better hybrids for Missouri".

The annual meeting of the Missouri Seed Improvement Association will also be held on Saturday morning.

The Missouri Seed Show held in connection with the Short Course is open to all Missouri farmers. All the seed at the show must have been grown in 1946. A seed grower may enter only one sample in a class but may enter in several classes.

Wynard Aslin of the Seed Improvement Association is the general superintendent of the Seed Show. Judges for the show include Milton Poehlman, J. R. Pauling, S. M. King, Leon L. McHoney, and C. A. Helm.

Home Grown Feed To Profit In Dairying

Soil Treatments Give Increase And Better Yields

Plenty of home grown feed is the basis of profit in dairying. That is common knowledge, says A. W. Klemme of the Missouri University College of Agriculture. But the two things of primary importance in curing pork are first, the right amount of salt and second, keeping meat in cure the proper length of time.

If too little salt is used even cold pork may spoil. If too much is used the meat may have to be parboiled before frying. Most recipes call for too much salt. Eight pounds of salt per 100 pounds of dry-cured meat is enough. If it is applied carefully six pounds is enough. For slicing bacon three pounds of salt to 100 pounds of bacon is satisfactory. In addition to salt in the curing mixture, sugar is added to improve the flavor, and saltpepper is added to set the red color in the lean. Spices may be added to give added savor. For sugar cured pork (dry Method) a mixture of eight pounds of salt, three pounds of brown sugar, and two ounces of saltpepper should be used for each 100 pounds of meat. For sugar curing pork (brine method) a mixture of ten pounds of salt, three pounds of brown sugar, two ounces of saltpepper and five gallons of water should be used for each 100 pounds of pork.

Experiments on the Hatch Farm of the Missouri Experiment Station found that dairy cows having good pasture, silage, alfalfa hay and a mineral mixture produced 85 per cent as much milk and 80 per cent as much butterfat as when on full grain rations. The cropping system suggested by the field crop men at the college includes sorgo, small grain, sweet clover, and alfalfa.

These crops rightly used provide the maximum amount of good grazing and hay—and on some farms enough grain for economical dairy production. It is easily possible in this way to produce a ton or more of milk to the acre. But erosion must be controlled and soil fertility must be kept at a high level.

For maximum yields and quality of crops and pasture forage, soil treatments are required. Unless the soil is able to deliver to the plant throughout the growing season an ample supply of the essential nutrients, yields will be reduced.

Treatment For Soil

Salt treatments give food increases in acre yields from pastures. Missouri experiments in Central Missouri, where soil treatments were used, showed that 100 acres produced as much as 143 acres without treatments. In the Ozarks, 100 treated acres produced as much as 200 acres without treatment. In Northwest Missouri, 100 acres with treatments produced as much as 125 acres without treatments.

Soil treatments also increase the value of the crops grown. In some Illinois experiments, the phosphorus content of alfalfa was increased from 2.8 pounds to as much as 5.6 pounds per ton with liberal soil treatments including phosphates, lime and potash. Forage with less than 3 pounds of phosphorus per ton are not safe for livestock feeding.

Unless the soils are naturally well supplied with lime or have recently been limed, limestone is usually the first treatment needed to establish sweet clover in the rotation and to grow alfalfa. It should be applied in accordance with the soil test which all county agents are equipped to make.

Fertilizer Needed
In addition to lime some commercial fertilizer containing nitrogen, phosphorus and potash is needed. Chemical soil tests, which most county agents can make, are helpful in choosing the fertilizer.

On dairy farms manure can be used to supply nitrogen, some phosphorus and potash. An application of 8 to 12 tons per acre plus 40 to 50 pounds of 20 per cent phosphate plowed under with grazed sweet clover for sorgo will furnish the fertility for maximum yields of sorgo and provide some reserve fertility for the crops following.

Pointers On The Curing Of Pork

Proper curing of pork is a problem which concerns every farm family who will be butchering hogs this fall and winter. The two things of primary importance in curing pork are first, the right amount of salt and second, keeping meat in cure the proper length of time.

If too little salt is used even cold pork may spoil. If too much is used the meat may have to be parboiled before frying. Most recipes call for too much salt. The Daily Washington Merry-go-Round

WASHINGTON, Dec. 16.—When John L. Lewis' lawyers, Welly K. Hopkins and Joe Padway, came out of the supreme court a week ago, newsmen reported them looking dejected and unhappy. Before they could be interviewed, Attorney General Tom Clark came to the rescue of his legal adversaries and whisked them away in his own limousine. Speculation has been rife ever since as to what happened inside the chief justice's chambers to make the two labor lawyers look so crestfallen.

It is now possible to tell the inside story on that conference. The meeting with Chief Justice Vinson was for the purpose of seeing whether the supreme court would take immediate jurisdiction of the miners-injunction dispute and to fix a time for argument. The chief justice listened carefully, said nothing, while labor lawyers Hopkins and Padway asked for a 25-day delay. They claimed they needed that time to prepare their case.

To this Attorney General Clark flatly objected. In his slow but friendly Texas drawl, he pointed out that the nation faced an emergency.

"These gentlemen are expert labor lawyers," he added, "and while they are entitled to sufficient time to prepare their case, I imagine they have carefully briefed this thing in their minds for some time."

Accordingly, he asked the chief justice to set Monday, Dec. 16 as the date for argument, thus giving the miners nine days to prepare their case.

"I had in mind," Judge Vinson said, "setting argument for next Thursday."

His words fell like a bombshell on miner lawyers Hopkins and Padway. This would have given them from Dec. 7 to Dec. 12, or five days, to prepare their case—as against nine days proposed by the attorney general.

At no time did the chief justice give any inkling either to them or to anyone else as to how he felt about the merits of the case. But he did make it emphatically clear that the supreme court owed it to the nation to try the case in a hurry.

That ended the private conference in the chief justice's chambers, following which Hopkins and Padway rushed back to United Mine Workers headquarters. Two hours later John L. Lewis called off his strike.

Miners Want More Delay

Shortly after the strike ended, the clerk of the supreme court phoned both the attorney general and the Lewis lawyers and asked them to meet with Chief Justice Vinson at 3 p. m. for a second conference. This time Vinson asked both sides for their views as to when the case should be argued—now that the strike was settled.

Padway and Hopkins proposed that the case be set on the regular court calendar and taken up as a matter of routine. This meant argument in late February or March—with another possible coal strike set for March 31. Again Attorney General Clark objected.

"I feel very definitely that this case should be argued in a reasonable length of time," he said. "Certainly in January."

Again the chief justice listened. This time he expressed no view, and the lawyers were preparing to come back the following week and present further ideas on appropriate dates, when the court beat them to it. It announced at its next session that it would hear argument on Jan. 14.

happening since he went away.

They were both so ill-at-ease, holding so much back that the conversation between them was jerky, filled with uncomfortable gaps of silence. During one of these Red motioned to the piano between the windows and asked her politely if she played.

"I used to play quite well," Elise admitted, "but I'm terribly out of practice."

"Would you play something for me?" he asked unexpectedly.

Elise was surprised. She hadn't thought that music would be among the things he appreciated. Perhaps he was only asking her to play to avoid the necessity of having to talk to her. Stifly she walked over to the piano and sat down.

For a moment her fingers lingered uncertainly over the keys. She played a couple of simple short selections. And then she challenged fate and let her emotions take over. Deliberately she began to play the haunting, yearning "Clair de Lune" of Debussy.

She put her heart into it and she dared not look at him. If she had she would have surprised an intent, strained look upon his face. "Red," she called, breathlessly. "Red McFan."

He heard her and stopped and turned a surprised flushed face to her. "Hello, Elise—I never expected to see you around here."

His voice and words were too obviously casual, but in her excitement she failed to notice that.

As a matter of fact he lied, for he had deliberately chosen to walk in the direction of her rooming house, hoping perversely to catch at least a distant glimpse of her.

It was the same sort of perversity which causes a starving man to torture himself by thinking of food and drink.

But now face to face with her he was only conscious of the need of maintaining their old relationship—at least in appearance. He answered her questions about his injured leg evasively and shortly.

"You're walking as if you're tired—" she said as they came to her place. "Wouldn't you like to stop in and rest a little while? I mean if your leg is hurting."

He flushed brick red with embarrassment, because she had noticed his limping. But he accepted.

They sat in the stiffly furnished rather dark living room, just off the lower hall and talked inconsequently of things at the laboratory and what had been

Child's Version of Christmas Story is Interesting to Mother

Miss Ruth McCune, a former Sedalia public school teacher, now teaching in Independence, Mo., was mentioned in the following story, which appeared in a recent edition of the Independence Examiner:

"Miss Ruth McCune, kindergarten teacher at McCoy school, has at least one little boy in her class who believes every word she says. But the stories she tells are not like the ones he retells at home, for what he doesn't understand he makes whole with his imagination."

"This is Toni Walker's story of the Nativity as he told it to his mother, Mrs. Grances Walker, 915 South Logan street:

"Miss McCune said there was a baby in a star. Is there a baby in a star now?"

"No, Toni, there's no baby in a star," his mother said, holding out his pajamas for him to put on.

"There was a baby in a star. Miss McCune said there was a baby in a star. Mary Jane saw an angel and the angel told her about it."

"Who is Mary Jane?"

"Mary Jane's a girl. Could we see an angel at the court house?"

"Do you mean a picture of an angel? Did someone you know in class see a picture of an angel at the court house?"

"Went To Pay Taxes"

"Mary Jane saw an angel at the court house. She went to the court house to pay her taxes and she saw an angel."

"Toni, are you thinking about some little girl in school who went with her parents to the court house to pay taxes last month. Did she see some Christmas angels there?"

"Toni's black eyes were disturbed. 'Miss McCune said the girl saw a real angel. And she rode on a donkey, and a man walked beside her.'

"Toni, you don't mean Mary Jane. You mean Mary and Joseph. Joseph was Mary's husband. Just say Mary for the girl!"

"He shook his head seriously. The angel told Mary Jane that when Jesus was born a star would shine in the sky." He paused. Did a star shine in the sky when I was born?"

"The night that you were born the sky was full of stars—but there wasn't a special star. You know, Toni, you don't quite understand what Miss McCune told you."

"Yes, I do. Miss McCune said if you followed the star—just kept following the star—you would come to the baby. Some people followed the star they took presents with them. They found the baby on East street."

More Questions

"Not East street. The people went toward the East."

"Why did they bring presents?"

"They brought the baby presents because he was going to grow up to be a wonderful man who would be kind and help people."

"I can help people."

"Of course, you can."

"Why did the little baby have Christmas on his birthday?"

"Because Christmas is his birthday. All of us celebrate the baby's birthday."

"Mary Jane couldn't find a room in a hotel, and there weren't any houses for rent so they went to a barn where there were cows. Will we have to sleep in a barn?"

"No. We will find a house."

"Miss McCune said that they found the baby in a barn and gave him presents . . . and he opened them all up!"

"Little babies aren't able to open presents," his mother said. "Now, Toni, you must go to bed. Let's take a book with us and read the story about Mary and the Baby before you go to sleep. Then the next time Miss McCune tells the story you will be able to help her."
